Fire Protection Court Fight Eyed In South Fulton

Citizens of South Fulton County say they want fire protection and if they don't get it from the county will take their fight to the courts.

Some 300 citizens gathered at a meeting Tuesday night to map plans for their quest for fire service. They said they had such service before the Plan of Improvement was adopted in 1952.

A. M. Nixon, spokesman for the group, said "we are really wrought up down here."

He said that the area had county-maintained trucks prior to the Plan of Improvement and that the "law has been slipped over on us."

* * *

CITIZENS AGREED to appoint a committee to look into the prospect of hiring a lawyer to take the matter to the courts.

Mr. Nixon said "we've been before the county commissioners time and time again, and it hasn't done any good."

* * *

IN THE PAST year at least 12 homes and two business structures have been destroyed by fire, Mr. Nixon said.

"We've got to do something even if we have to dig into our pockets and buy equipment," the spokesman stated.

Another meeting has been set by the citizens for 8 p.m. Friday at the clubhouse of the Welcome All Civic Club.

Atlanta Man Found Dead In Closed Car

The body of an Atlanta man, missing since last Friday, was discovered Tuesday in a tightly closed automobile in a sparsely settled area about half a mile from the Chattahoochee River in Douglas County, Sheriff J. H. Harding said Wednesday.

The sheriff identified the man as John A. Hatter, 30, of 1057 Constitution Rd., SE. He was a salesman for an Atlanta awning concern.

* * *

THE SHERIFF SAID the body was discovered lying on the back seat of a 1951 model sedan. Two Douglasville textile workers made the discovery. The sheriff said doors to the car were locked and he had to smash a window to enter.

He said a rubber hose, attached to the exhaust pipe, ran through the trunk of the car to the interior. The ignition was turned on and the gasoline supply was exhausted, Sheriff Harding said.

Death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning, Sheriff Harding said.

Survivors include Mr. Hatter's wife, the former Miss Nancy Burrus of Cumming; a son, John A. Hatter Jr., and daughter, Nancy Patricia Hatter.

Safe Robbed

A safe in the office of the Automobile Glass Co., 656 Spring St., NW, was robbed of an undetermined amount of money some time Tuesday night, detectives said Wednesday. The place was entered through a skylight, investigating officers said.

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—A fact-finding board recommended Tuesday night that 400 photo-engravers on six New York daily newspapers receive a $3.75 a week "package" wage increase, the same figure offered by publishers during an 11-day strike last fall.

The three-man board, whose decision is not binding, said it found "no standard or criterion" to back up the photo-engravers' demands for a greater wage increase and a shorter work week.

Officials of local No. 1 of the AFL International Photo-Engravers Union made no immediate comment on the decision.

Report of Lost Industry Stirs Action on New Vocation Funds

The State Board of Education has told heads of the Vocation Training Department to figure out how much additional funds the department will need next year, after hearing reports that Georgia is losing industry for lack of vocational training.

This action was taken Tuesday after a full day of reports on the vocational setup. Although the reports were to have been made just for the board's committee on vocational training, nearly a full board showed up.

* * *

GEORGE I. MARTIN, director of the Vocational Training Division, estimated Wednesday that the division needs $250,000 more for the next school year. He said, however, he did not know whether he would ask the board for that much.

The division this year received $1,350,000 in state funds and $720,000 in federal funds for its program of adult training.

Need for more facilities on industrial training was stressed in reports. The statement was made that some industries were turning down the state as a place to locate because of lack of such training.

* * *

TWO SPECIAL schools in north and south Georgia were described as having long waiting lists of pupils. Need for a special Negro school was also stressed.

Other problems presented included need for more vocational teachers in high schools.

KITE FLIERS' TOURNEY SET FOR SATURDAY

Go fly a kite.

Go, that is, to the Piedmont Park polo field Saturday, when there's going to be a citywide contest in kite-flying skill.

It's an annual event of the City Parks Department. Miss Virginia Carmichael, recreation director, says it is open to all ages.

There are just these rules: You must fly a kite you made yourself, and if you enter more than one event you'll have to bring more than one kite.

Competition starts at 10 a.m. If it rains, the whole thing will be postponed until March 13.
