Washington, D. C., May 24.—Notwith-standing the persistent rumors in circula-tion to the effect that a great naval en-gagement had been fought in the Wind-ward passage resulting in the destruction of the Spanish fleet, it can be stated posi-tively that the navy department has no information that tends in the slightest to only these rumors.

Unless the improbable happens, there is no immediate prospect of a naval engagement of any magnitude, in the opinion of the navy department officials. The unanimity with which the best informed express this view also warrants the conclusion that it is based upon knowledge that the hostile fleets are again far apart. Indeed there is no certainty that Admiral Cervera is not already bound homeward, provided he has succeeded in securing a supply of coal, for he could not make the run back to the Canaries with less than about 2500 or 3000 tons.

There are signs in Madrid that have been noted here seeming to warrant the supposition that there has been a complete change in the Spanish plan of conducting the war. Indications are believed to point to a relaxation, if not a total abandonment, of attempts to conduct the campaign in Cuban and West Indian waters.

The natural conclusion, if this premise

The oleo-margarine decision, too, seems to have a broader application than may appear at first sight. While this decision in the Pennsylvania and New Hampshire cases does not concern itself with such pro-visions as those which demand a spe-cific stamping, coloring or wrapping of packages to distinguish manufactured from creamery butter at a glance, it would seem that such marks of recogni-tion might hereafter be enforcible only in the case of oleos manufactured in the state enacting such laws, being nugatory nought up all of this as well as of other provisions at an advance of S to 10 per cent, and have raised prices. The street railway case was appealed from the decision of the Supreme court of the state of Michigan and involved the right of the Petroit city council to grant an exclusive franchise to lay street car tracks in that city. In 1862 an ordinance was passed giving to the Detroit City Railway company, of which the Detroit Citizens company is the successor, the right to lay railways in streets voted by the council to the exclusion of all other companies. In 1879 right was extended for thirty years. In 1894 the council passed an ordinance giving the Detroit railway the right to lay tracks on the same streets already occupied by the lines of the other company. The old company then brought suit to restrain the new organization on the ground that this ordinance impaired the validity of its contract with the city. The decision rendered by the Supreme court was handed down by Justice McKenna, and was adverse to this claim of exclusive right sustaining the decision of the "The signing of a treaty of defense between the United States and Great Britain is announced in a dispatch received here on Saturday by the military authorities. Secretary Long projected this plan a month ago and $75,000 was set aside to establish the points of observation along the coast. After selecting the thirty-four central points from Maine to Texas rush orders were given to build observation towers and houses for the observers. The naval militia was drawn on to man the different observation towers and five militia with the rank of naval quartermasters are now on duty at each of these stations. The towers are completed and also the small houses for their living purposes. There are 233 of these militiamen now in service.

The next step was to have the lighthouse service made an adjunct to this coast observation. This was done through the co-operation of the treasury department, and the lighthouse force of 1200 men scattered from Maine to Texas are assisting the work of observation. The life-saving service was brought into similar co-operation, so that now 1-060 life-savers are added to the observation force. The thirty-four central stations with the numerous lighthouses and life-saving stations make a complete chain of observation points, all connected by telegraph or telephone with one another and with the navy department.

By arrangement with the telegraph companies the reports from the observers take precedence over private telegraphic busigrandda-ghter of the late Judge John Dean Canton, to Maj.-Gen. Wesley Merritt, military governor of the Philippine islands, was made yesterday, just before the latter's departure.

Miss Williams is a brunette, graceful and petite, but of striking appearance, with jet black hair and eyes, and brilliant coloring. She is about 25 years of age. She has received much attention here and abroad, especially in London, where she was the guest of Robert T. Lincoln, when he was the representative of this country at the Court of St. James. She was presented at the Queen's drawing room with Miss Lincoln. Norman Williams, her father, has for a number of years been one of the well-known figures in Chicago legal and financial circles. Gen. Merritt was born in Illinois December 1, 1836, and is a graduate of West Point. He entered the war directly after graduation in 1861. In April, 1863, he was appointed brigadier-general, and his services throughout the war were of the most distinguished kind. At its close he was a major-general and chief of cavalry in Gen. Sheridan's division. He was present at he surrender of Lee at Apponattox. After making a name for himself in Indian fighting he served in various commands in the army. In 1897 he was given command of the department of the East and his headquarters were transferred to Governor's island. By arrangement with the telegraph com-panies the reports from the observers take precedence over private telegraphic busi-ness, so that the navy department is en-abled to get immediate telegraphic notice of the approach of any hostile fleet or sus-picious ship.

CONGRESS.

Senate. The feature of the session of the Senate on the 18th was the speech of Mr. Turple (19cm., Ind.) upon the war revenue measure. He strongly contended that a bond issue was unnecessary; that all the funds required for the prosecution of the war could be raised through the proposed inheritance tax, by the tax on corporations, by the coinage of the silver seignlorage and by the issue of legal tender notes. These four means of obtaining money would yield to the government during the next year, he maintained, fully $50,000,000, an amount in excess of the estimated sum necessary for the coaduct of the war.

The death of Gladstone was made the

The death of Gladstone was made the theme of the chaplain's invocation at the opening of the Senate on the 19th. A resolution presented by Mr. Mills (Pex.) was passed. It calls upon the secretary of war for plans and specifications for the improvement of Aransas Pass harbor. At the conclusion of the morning business, consideration of the war revenue bill was resumed. Mr. McLaurin (S. C.) delivered a set speech. Mr. McLaurin (8, C.) delivered a set speech.

The House was not in session on the 20th and the Senate adjourned after a routine consideration of the revenue bill, the committee on finance finding it necessary to wake additional amendments to the war revenue bill before proceeding farther with the measure. A session of the committee was held but there was not sufficient time to reach a conclusion of the changes necessary and in trying to arrive at an understanding of what should be done to perfect the bill. There is no division on party lines on most of the changes required as they are largely of a technical character.

For five hours on the 23d the Senate had the war revenue measure under discussion. The entire time was occupied by Mr. Chilton (Dem., Tex.), Mr. Lodge (Rep., Mass.) and Mr. Turley (Dem., Tenn.). Mr. Lodge onfined blunself to a discussion of the proposed tax on corporations and bank deposits, strongly urging that such taxes be not imposed. Mr. Chilton and Mr. Turley covered pretty fully the general features of the bill. Their speeches dealt comprehensively with the theories of taxathon and were therefore in the very nature of things legal and technical dissertations upon the subject. No action of any kind was taken on the bill. At the opening of the session of the Senate a communication was received from Secretary of War Alger together with a draft of a bill providing for a gradual increase in the number of officers of the corps of engineers. The bill provides that the corps of engineers. The bill provides that the corps of engineers, with rank of brigadier-general; seven colonels, fourteen lieutenant-colonels, twenty-eight majors, thirty five captains, thirty first lieutenants, twelve second lieutenantle, and a battathon of engineers. The feature of the war revenue measure placing a tax of one quarter of 1 per cent, upon the gross receipts of corporations was under discussion in the Senate throughout on the 24th. Incidentally the proposed tax on bank deposits was adverted to. The principal speeches were delivered by Mr. Platt (Rep., Conn.) and Mr. Lindsay (Dem., Ky.), both of whom vigorously attacked the corporation tax. The weight of the former's argument was thrown against the tax on the ground that it was unconstitutional because the tax was not levied alike on all persons engaged in a particular line of business. He maintained that an occupation tax could be levied, provided that the conditions were fair and equitable, but that the business of a corporation could not be taxed simply because it was conducted by a corporation. To be equitable, the tax must be laid upon the business whether it was conducted by a corporation, a partnership, a firm or an individual. Mr. Lindsay vigorously antagonized the proposed issue of legal tender notes, declaring that it accentuated the existing menace to the gold reserve of the treasury and was, besides, the attain's financial credit. He, too, presented an argument against the proposed corporation tax, maintaining that if ceneeted into law it would breed a batch of law suits, instead of providing what the government needed ready money with which to conduct the war oper-

The House adjourned on the 18th after a session lasting only an hour and a half. An ineffectual effort was made to pass a bill prohibiting the publication of information encogning the strength of the country's fortifications. Without debate the deficiency pension bill was passed, carrying $8,437,032.

The adjournment of the House on the 19th to the 25d postpones any possible consideration of the Hawaiian resolutions. Adjournment was taken after passing the labor arbitration bill as amended by the Senate and experiencing a brief political titt, precipitated by a personal political explanation from Mr. Tongue (Rep., Oc.).

The House on the 25d cassed the Senate The House on the 23d passed the Senate bill providing for the payment of volunteers from their enrollment and authorizing the secretary of war to pay troops embarking for Manila one month in advance.

The House passed a bill granting 3129 acres of land to Santa Barbara. Cal., for purposes of waterworks and also the Senate bill for a temporary increase of army-hospital stewards.
