

PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

Returns Are Received From Ely and Virginia.

There must be something about the new primary election law that the people of Ely and Virginia don't like, judging from the returns of the test given it on Tuesday. The canvassing board went over the returns at the court house yesterday.

Only the Republicans voted at Ely, and at Virginia there was but one instance of where two men of the same party were after the same job.

At Ely the following candidates were chosen to run on the Republican ticket: M. E. Gleason, mayor; Peter Schaefer, city clerk; F. L. Cowen, city treasurer; Thomas Jury, assessor; and Thomas White, municipal judge.

At Virginia the following Republicans were named: William H. Eaton, mayor; Albert E. Bickford, recorder; William B. Pratt, treasurer; Gust Johnson, alderman, First ward; Louis Cohen, alderman, Second ward; Herbert Burchell, alderman, Third ward; Gust Blomberg, alderman, Fourth ward; and David C. Christopher, justice of the peace. Cohen was the only man who had any opposition in his own party.

The following were named by the Democrats: A. N. Thompson, Mayor; Gustaf Nelson, recorder; John Hoveland, alderman, Third ward; and Jacob Johnson, alderman, Fourth ward. James Sullivan, who had filed his affidavit as alderman in the First ward, did not receive a vote. His filing did not cost him $10, however, as the aldermen in Virginia receive no pay for their services.
