

BIJOU TO REPLACE PRINCESS THEATER

New Management Takes Over Old House — Extensive Remodeling and Improving to Take Place.

---

W. M. Abrahamson, one of Duluth's prominent business men, has bought the old Princess moving picture theater, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, and after extensive repairs and renovations will re-open it as the Bijou theater.

About three months ago Mr. Abrahamson took over the Savoy theater and since then has been meeting with gratifying success in catering to amusement seekers who desire high-class, clean vaudeville and moving pictures.

When the new Bijou re-opens it will be one of the most modern and thoroughly equipped moving picture theaters in the city.

The same detail to cleanliness and safety that marks the Savoy will be a feature at the Bijou.

The motion picture machine in the Bijou will be equipped with a safety valve, which works automatically in the disconnecting of the electric current, reducing the danger from fire to a minimum.

Comfort of women and children and strict attention to every detail will be features of the new house.
