Charles Dickens' one-hundredth anniversary as the inspiration for original entertaining was apparently neglected by Duluth hostesses, but they are making up for the omission and profiting by Lincoln's birthday and Valentine's day this week. Several informal parties will be given tomorrow, and the patriotic element will not be omitted. Functions ranging from children's parties to showers for brides-to-be and including bridge parties have made elaborate use of the Valentine motif.

The most conspicuous social event last week was the Knights of Columbus annual ball Friday evening, but pre-Lenten social activity was manifested in the number of informal affairs, luncheons, bridge parties and showers that were given.

The German club Valentine collation Thursday evening, the Twentieth Century club reception tomorrow and the Grand Army of the Republic concert are the chief events of the week.

Music by the three artists, Miss Heymar, Miss Brown and Miss Lawson, combined with soft lights, tables decked with daffodils and an atmosphere of delicious ease, attracted so many to the matinee tea at the palm room of the Spaulding yesterday afternoon that other rooms had to be thrown open. Mrs. A. E. Walker entertained for Mrs. E. A. Shores, Mrs. F. L. Barrows, Mrs. E. W. Matter, Mrs. E. H. Savage and Miss Florence Pezler; Mrs. Walter Carr for Mrs. Thomas Ring, Mrs. Stephen H. Jones and Mrs. D. H. Day; Mrs. James Rely for Mrs. D. L. Fairchild, Mrs. C. N. Whiting and Mrs. D. H. Nichols; Mrs. H. J. Wessinger for Mrs. Fred Anderson son of St. Paul, her other guests being Mrs. C. W. Bridenthal, Mrs. L. F. Newton, and Miss Gertrude Mallory; Miss Gerace Cullen for Miss Alice Sullivan, Miss Genevieve Cullen, Miss Leo Block, Miss Hazel Dell Roberts and Miss Rose Sullivan; Mrs. Cora N. Stevenson, for Mrs. E. W. Kaltenbach, Mrs. John Oldham and Mrs. C. E. Wallace; Mrs. N. F. Hugo for Miss Margaret Balne, Miss Le Due and Miss Annie Hugo; Mrs. H. J. Muller for Miss Clark and Mrs. C. A. Marshall. Some of the smaller groups were Mrs. E. A. Silberstein and Mrs. L. Traubman; Mrs. Clay Beckwith and Mrs. E. L. Miller; Mrs. G. H. Harper, Mrs. William Harrison and Miss Harriet Harrison; Miss Feetham and Miss Emanuelson; Mrs. F. H. Ginder and Mrs. William F. Gould of Superior; Mrs. H. M. Hoover, Mrs. R. T. Hugo and Miss Thomas; Mrs. La Vaque and Mrs. Holliday.

Almost as large a number held after-theater parties on Friday evening, among them Mr. and Mrs. Casmer, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cooke Howard, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Salter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Mullen and Mrs. John B. Weston.

Music by Miss Elizabeth Morton Dworschak and Mrs. Homer Collins, and realines by Miss Lella Sparks will take the place of the talk on Masterlinek which was to have been given by Mrs. Cobb of Brainerd at the monthly social afternoon of the Twentieth Century club, tomorrow, at the home of Mrs. N. F. Hugo, 2107 East Third street. Mrs. E. Frank Barker, who has charge of the program, will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Robert Liggett, Miss Lella Sparks, Miss Chloe Richards and Miss Annie Hugo. From fifty to seventy-five guests are expected to call between 3 to 5 o'clock.
