

SITE SECURED FOR HEBREW SCHOOL

Purchase Is Celebrated by Over 100 Prominent Jewish Citizens
at Adas Israel Synagogue.

Nearly 100 prominent Jewish citizens met last evening at the Adas Israel synagogue, Third avenue East and Third street, to celebrate the purchase of a site for the location of a Hebrew institute, the first of its kind in the city and possibly in the state.

Joseph Oreckowsky, chairman of the committee, which has appointed last month to raise funds for the project, formally announced that the building at 310 and 312 East Third street, adjoining the synagogue had been bought for the purpose of locating the school there.

Rabbis Teplitz and Horwitz, made short addresses in which they commented on the action of the committee in selecting this desirable site. Rabbi Teplitz talked from a Talmudical standpoint and showed the urgent need of the establishment of such an institution.

Rabbi Horwitz, principal of the present Moses Montefiore Hebrew school, expressed himself as pleased with the work of the committee, and dealt with the activities of the school of which he is in charge.

Following the meeting and addresses, the ladies of the synagogue served a banquet in the parlors.

A meeting of the committee in charge of securing money for the school, will be held sometime this week. Detailed plans will then be worked out as to the campaign for funds which will be inaugurated shortly.
