

SHE CAN'T WIPE DISHES; HE SUES

---

Sam Litman Asks $150 From City
Because His Daughter Fell on Sidewalk.

---

Sam Litman, 203 East Fourth street, yesterday served notice of suit against the city for $50 damages because his daughter Dora, was injured Oct. 2 by falling on a sidewalk in front of his house and was temporarily unable to wipe dishes and do other housework. He also is suing for $100 on behalf of his daughter, alleging that her knee was lacerated in the fall and infection followed.

Litman declares his daughter fell accidentally, but that the city was negligent in allowing nails in the walk to extend above its surface, and that one of these infected the cut. He states that he also suffered by being deprived of his daughter's society while she was recovering and the necessity of paying doctor bills.