

BROTHERLY LOVE URGED BY BANGS

Speaker Commends Elks
Motto in Address at the Memorial Service.

POINTS TO WORK OF WARDEN TYNAN

Musical Program Pleases Large Crowd Present at the Exercises.

The motto of the order of Elks, "Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love, and Fidelity," was the text on which Tracy R. Bangs delivered the address at the annual memorial services held Sunday afternoon by the Grand Forks lodge of the order.

In this connection Mr. Bangs declared that one of the finest exemplifications of the application of this motto was being given by Warden Tynan of the Missouri state prison, at Kansas City, Mo.

Warden Tynan is an Elk and has been endeavoring to conduct the prison along the lines laid down in the motto of the order. The convicts are treated like human beings, instead of like wild animals; they are allowed unusual privileges, and the honor system prevails throughout the prison.

The success of this plan, according to Mr. Bangs shows how well the motto will work when applied to real life and he urged his hearers always to apply it to their every day dealings. The musical program of the exercises included "Tennessee," "Crossing the Bar," sung by N. B. Black, and the "Berceuse" from Jodelyn played on the cello by Alfred Howe. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by Rev. F. M. McCreary.

A large audience of members of the order and others were present at the exercises. The services were beautiful, the musical memorial exercises being carried out by the officers. A large number of friends of the order, and of the members, attended, the services being held in the main lodge room of the Elk building.

FATHER HAS GIRL ARRESTED

Claims That Rose Walters Abandoned Child When She Married and Went to Crookston.

Rose Walters, formerly Rose Zerppe, was arrested at Crookston Saturday and was brought back to Grand Forks on a charge of having deserted her infant child, M. Zerppe, father of the woman, is the complaining witness.

She was taken before Justice R. J. Purcell Saturday night and the case continued until Tuesday. According to the story told by the elder Zerppe, the girl was recently married and went to Crookston, leaving her illegitimate child in his care. He refuses to look after the child longer, and demands that the mother assume her rightful responsibility in the matter.

ADMIT TWELVE ATTORNEYS

The ceremony of admission to the bar was held in the district court room and was conducted by the officials of the supreme court.

CHRISTMAS TREES TO BE PLENTIFUL

First Consignment Reached the City—Fifteen Shopping Days Left.

The first consignment of Christmas trees reached Grand Forks Saturday and several more cars arrived this morning. The local wholesale houses each received one or two carloads, and during the next few days they will be distributed to the retail dealers.

Supply Will be Large. This promises to be an exceptionally good Christmas tree year. There has been little or no snow in the woods, and consequently it has been a great deal easier to cut the trees than in previous years.

By the end of the week, trees of all sizes can be purchased. They will range from two to twenty feet in height, and from 25 cents to $5 in price. Christmas wreaths and holly also have reached the city, and already have taken their places in the business house decorations.

Fifteen Shopping Days. There are but fifteen more shopping days before Christmas, and local dealers are urging that as much buying as possible be done this week. Next week the stores will commence keeping open until 9 o'clock p. m. to accommodate late shoppers.

TO OPEN BASKETBALL SEASON

University Y. M. C. A. Teams Will Meet Next Friday Evening.

The Grand Forks basketball season will be formally opened Friday night when the University Y. M. C. A. teams play. The contest will be played at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

The University players have been working out for several weeks, and now are in condition to play a hard game. Coach Archer will not announce his lineup until the latter part of the week.

Coach Thompson of the Y. M. C. A. declares that the institution will have an exceptionally strong team this year. He expects an unusually hard game against the university quint, but he believes that his men will be equal to the task. He has not definitely chosen his team.

JEWISH CHILDREN GIVE BIBLE PLAY

"Joseph and His Brethren"
Presented in Hebrew—Annual School Examination.

The presentation in Hebrew of the famous biblical play, "Joseph and His Brethren," was the feature of last night's entertainment, given by the pupils of the Grand Forks Hebrew school. The play was produced by the regular examination of classes.

The play was an unusual success. It was the first entertainment of its kind given by the Jewish children, and it was more than enthusiastically received. The synagogue was filled to capacity, and many were forced to stand throughout the evening.

The examination classes were conducted by Max Rabinovich, chairman of the board of education. The other members of the board are: M. Fischman, S. Panovitz, John Fischman and Rev. V. Papermaster. The judges of the class contests were: Sigmund Wolf, S. Panovitz and M. M. Fischman.

Sigmo Webber is in charge of the school. He also directed the production of the play. The school is conducted for the purpose of teaching the children Hebrew, and the examination of the past six months' work.

Prizes Are Awarded. Elizabeth Baber won first prize in the younger children's class, and Richard Pyles was awarded second prize.

In the second class, which took up second book, Rose Abramovitch won first prize, Rose Abramovitch second, and B. Nieman, third.

In the third, or translation class, Meyer Neiman won first prize, and Crystal was second. Fannie Solow third and Annie Medlen fourth.

In the fourth class, which was examination in Hebrew writing, Zeide Papermaster won first prize and Samuel Paley second.

There were two contestants in the speaking class. Lloyd Friedman delivered a fifteen-minute address, and the judges unanimously awarded him first prize.

JOHNSON'S SISTER SOUGHT

Man Died in Havre, Mont., Is Said to Have Been Swede, Naturalized in Canada.

The police are endeavoring to locate the sister of one John Johnson, who died Sunday in Havre, Mont., and whose sister is said to reside here. A telegram was received today from Troy & Kay, Havre, Mont., reading as follows: "John Johnson died here today. Has sister in Grand Forks. Is a Swede, and naturalized Canadian. Came to Montana a few months ago."

Since neither the name or address of the sister are given, the police are at a loss to know how to locate her.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

JACK FROST ARRIVES. The Moon looked down on the Green Forest and the little pond of Paddy the Beaver in the warm rays of the evening sun. The moon smiled, for it was plain to see that Paddy the Beaver was happy. Yes, sir, he was happy. There was doubt about that. For the time being he had forgotten all about his worries regarding Farmer Brown's boy. He couldn't have told you just how, but somehow he knew that Jack Frost would arrive that very night, and Paddy was preparing for him. You see it was this way: To make that splendid house of his out in his pond as stout and safe and good as he wanted, he had to freeze the water of the pond. And he had been waiting and watching for him. So now that he was sure that Jack Frost would arrive that night, he was working very hard to be ready for him. What was Paddy doing? Why, he was putting more mud on the walls and roof of his house, digging it up from the bottom of his pond, and plastering it on thick. He knew that it would remain soft and wet all night if Jack Frost didn't arrive before morning. Then when he did arrive it would be all ready for him to freeze until it was almost as hard as stone. So he worked and worked as hard as ever he could and patted and smoothed the mud down on the walls and roof of his house and hoped that Jack Frost would come soon. Jack Frost would not be able to undo it with his magic wand the next morning. The little stars looked down and twinkled as they watched Paddy work, and they were very, very bright. And by way over in the Green Forest where the black shadows were blackest Paddy heard a stick snap. He sat up on the roof of his house to listen. Who was coming? It couldn't be Old Man Coyote, for who ever knew him to be so quiet as to snap a twig? No, it couldn't be Old Man Coyote. It might be Farmer Brown's boy, but somehow Paddy felt that Farmer Brown's boy would never come away up there in the Green Forest in the night. No, it couldn't be Farmer Brown's boy. He listened with both little ears wide open. There it was again, the snap of a stick. Paddy smiled. There was no doubt now of who was coming. It was Jack Frost! No one else loved to snap sticks just for the fun of it as much as Jack Frost. Neater and nearer came the sound of snapping sticks and broader and broader grew the smile of Paddy the Beaver. But now he no longer sat idly listening. He was working harder than ever, plastering mud on the roof of his house. And so Jack Frost found him and chuckled as he blew his cold, cold breath on the wet mud until it grew stiff and stiffer and then hard. And Paddy chuckled as he brought up the mud and saw it harden almost as soon as it was put in place, for they are very good friends, are Paddy the Beaver and Jack Frost.

"I'm glad that some one is glad that I've come," replied Jack Frost, "for some people seem to be afraid of me, and those are the people I love to see shiver and shake. I love to hear their teeth chatter. Put a little more mud here so that I may freeze it."

So Paddy the Beaver and Jack Frost worked while the little stars looked on and twinkled, and in the morning when the jolly, round, red sky he looked down on the little pond in the heart of the Green Forest, and behold! it was smooth and shining, like a mirror covered with ice, and out from the middle of it rose the walls and roof of the house of Paddy the Beaver, so stout and hard that even the sharp claws of Furry the Lynx could not have torn it open. The house of Paddy had been finished. By Jack Frost.

WEBB PRESIDED AT JAMESTOWN

Bishop of Diocese of Milwaukee Takes Part in Session of State Episcopal Organization.

Rev. W. W. Webb, bishop of the diocese of Milwaukee, was the chief speaker at the semi-annual meeting of the clerical, held last week at Jamestown, according to Rev. J. K. Burleson of this city, who attended the session.

This club is composed of the Episcopal clergymen of the state. The meeting last week was purely devotional in character, the business session of the organization being held in June.

Bishop Webb conducted the meetings, and the session was one of the most successful in the history of the organization.

HOLIDAYS FOR STUDENTS NEAR

University to Close December 19—Many Events on For Next Week.

Vacation for the students at the University of North Dakota is only a few days off. The last classes will be held at the institution Friday afternoon, December 12, and they will not be resumed until Tuesday morning, Jan. 6, 1914.

Next week will be filled up with college affairs. The first four evenings will be taken up with the annual series of intersociety debates. The University of Minnesota Glee club will appear here Wednesday evening, December 17, and the following night the model high school senior class will present its annual play. There is nothing scheduled for Friday, as the students will leave for home that night.

The first big social event at the institution after the first of the year will be the annual party of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, which will be held January 17.

The first semester examinations will be held on Friday and Saturday, and for that reason there will be very little doing in the social line until the beginning of the second semester. Most of the big parties will be given during the last semester.

BI-WEEKLY DINNER TOMORROW

Regular Commercial Club Spread Will Be Held—President McVey to Speak on City Growth.

The regular Commercial club bi-weekly dinner, which will be given tomorrow night, promises to be unusually interesting. President F. McVey of the university will be the speaker, and the subject of his address will be "Some Phases of City Growth."

Mr. McVey will illustrate his address with stereoscopic views which he took during his recent European trip. Certain phases of the address will be considered in the light of foreign progress, and he promises to touch on several questions of vital importance to Grand Forks.

MOTHERS WELL ORGANIZE

Parents of Y. M. C. A. Boys' Department Members Meet at Association This Afternoon.

At the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. late this afternoon, steps will be taken to organize a mothers' auxiliary to assist in carrying on the work of the boys' department. J. Burton Cray, secretary of the boys' department, believes that better results can be secured by having an auxiliary before the mothers this afternoon.

The chief plan is to get their assistance in the work of developing the boys, physically, mentally and religiously. If the organization is affected, committees will be appointed to carry on the various features of the work.

Mailing Christmas presents early may also help to give the overworked postoffice robbers a better chance.

FRIENDLY GAME CAUSE OF THEFT

Getts Piano Co. Salesman is Held on Embezzlement Charge.

FAILED TO TURN IN COLLECTIONS

Arrested at Dickinson and Taken to Bismarck For Hearing.

A friendly card game is said to have caused the downfall of C. E. Tinchner, agent for the Getts Piano company of this city who is under arrest at Bismarck charged with embezzling $250 from the company, the money having been derived from the sale of part of a carload of pianos which he was selling in the western part of the state.

Tinchner was given a hearing this morning before a justice of the peace, and the hearing was continued until December 18, being unable to raise $500 bail he was sent to the county jail.

Expected Larger Shortage. G. W. Getts, president of the Piano company, said today that when Tinchner's books were checked up it would probably be found that he was short a much larger amount than was charged in the warrant for his arrest. Mr. Getts has a letter from Tinchner in which the latter admits shortages in his accounts but explains that he fell in with a number of "good fellows," who separated him from the larger part of his stock.

It appears that the accused man has been traveling around the western part of the state for some time past with a carload of pianos owned by the local concern. He has been disposing of these at the small towns along the way, and in many cases, according to Mr. Getts, has been holding back the money he received from the sales.

Warrant Issued at Bismarck. An investigation was started a week ago, with the result that a warrant for Tinchner's arrest was obtained. The salesman was arrested in Dickinson and taken to Bismarck for a hearing.

Mr. Getts says that Tinchner got into a similar scrape last winter but that the offense was overlooked, and that he was allowed to continue in the employ of the company on giving his note for the amount that he was short. This note Mr. Getts says has not been paid as yet.

Laugh With Us

We observe that the twelve year old miss is endeavoring to stanch her tears.

"What is the matter, little girl?" "I think grandmamama is too mean for anything," she sobbed. "My new frock cost me this morning, and she said it was too daring for me to wear and put it on herself to wear to the matinee!"

Second Lodge Member—That's the trouble. You see, he spent a good many hours learning the funeral ritual while you were sick.

As a certain young artist of New York sat upon his stool one day in the Adirondacks, doing a bit of "mountain stuff," there approached him from the rear a native, evidently with ideas of some touching art.

"Did you ever try photography?" asked the newcomer.

"No," was the curt response of the young artist, who continued his work.

"It's a dead quickie," suggested the native.

"I suppose it is," snarled assented the painter, with another dab of the brush.

"And," the native added, with a dash of malice, "a good deal more like the place."

"Oh, I ain't a-smellin' 'em."

"What you doin', den?" "I's just whisperrin' to 'em. dat's all."

"An' what you whisperrin' to dem fish?" "Oh, I see just askin' 'em how's all dey's relations dat dey lef' down in de ocean."

"An' what dey say?" "Dey say it's so long since dey seen 'em dat dey forgits. Yuh, yuh, yuh!"

Buying Early

More Than Doubles the Pleasure of Gift Giving

The real spirit of the Christmas season is most fully enjoyed by those who have their gifts selected, wrapped and tied, ready for presentation, in the early days of December. Everything is to be gained by making selection early—nothing gained in delays.

"His lordship, greatly shocked, began to lecture them on the great offense of lying. You can't always make everything "just so." Sometimes you will get in more shortening than usual; or make the batter a little thin; or it may not be convenient to put a cake in the oven the moment it is mixed; or your oven may not bake evenly and it is necessary to turn the pan around—none of these little uncertainties make the slightest difference in results if you use

KG BAKING POWDER

This modern, double-raise baking powder has unusual strength and is absolutely certain to raise your biscuits, cakes and pastry light and feathery. It generates an abundance of leavening gas both in the mixing bowl and in the oven. The raising is sustained until the dough is cooked through.

Housewives who use KG never have "bad luck" with their baking. Try KG at our risk. Your grocer will refund your money if you are not pleased in every way.
