

SILVIAN STARTS ON EASTERN BUYING TRIP

William Silvian of the New York Oriental Importing company leaves for New York city tonight on his annual midwinter purchasing trip. Mr. Silvian stated yesterday that he will buy more heavily than ever before at the auction salesrooms of the United States customs house. The remodeling of the store of the New York Oriental Importing company is being done with an idea of creating more display space for high-grade linens, laces, gowns and Oriental goods. The business of this concern in 1913 was remarkable, according to Mr. Silvian, and large increases are already being shown during the first month of 1914.
