

Will Celebrate Cuban Independence.

From an American standpoint, one of the most interesting and important events of the entire spring season will be the celebration of the birth of the republic of Cuba, May 20, 1902. The beautiful Pan-American Union building at Washington has been chosen by the Cuban minister and Mme. de Cespedes for the scene of the celebration, and it will take the form of a large banquet and reception. Invitations have just been issued and embrace members of the cabinet and their wives, ambassadors and ministers and their wives; officers of the Pan-American Union, higher officials of the State Department and others of Washington. There will also be present to take part in the celebration a number of the delegates who come to attend the Pan-American financial conference which begins May 24. The celebration will also be particularly interesting in that it will serve to introduce Mme. de Cespedes to a large number of folk as the season was over when she arrived in Washington as a bride.
