

SENIORS BURLESQUE TEACHERS OF SCHOOL

"Double" of Each Instructor at
S. H. S. Is Impersonated at Class Day Exercises.

Clever "makeups" which made doubles of all members of the Superior high school faculty were used by seniors of the institution at class day exercises of the graduating class in the auditorium yesterday morning. The novel performance met with the approval of the student body and marked the most unique observance ever held at the local institution.

Those who took part in the "tragedy" were Severence Hayes as Principal C. G. Wade, Lionel Larson as John H. Jordan, Hubert Fee as George W. Fredericks, Abe Sosnoski as H. K. Wieman, David Smith as R. A. Quick, Irwin Kuehlthau as Andrew Schneider, Harold Riches as Nels Valby, Julius Westerberg as Irwin C. Martin, George Moore as John R. Minue, Grace Desimval as Miss Elizabeth Yerka, Dorice Jacobson as Miss Lulu Dickinson, France Anderson as Miss Margaret McRae, Hazel Newland as Miss Mary Nadler, Ruth Jacobson as Miss Nellie McConnell, Eleanor Anderson as Miss Rose Bowen, Mary Hayes as Miss Abbie Watkins, Natalie Wilkinson as Miss Edith Godrich, Edna David as Miss Deborah Jenkins, Sarah Nelson as Miss Kate Bartley, Mary Hile as Miss Mabel Pomeroy, Henrietta Edelman as Miss Alma Stock, Evelyn Kaner as Mrs. Helen E. Burhans and Theodore Thompson as Harley Goodwin.

A senior "symphony" orchestra led by Jack O'Hara, a solo by Emma Begliner, reading of the prophecy by Mary Hile, Natalie Wilkinson and Sarah Nelson, a piano duet by Marion and Kathryn Canty and the class will by Russell Greenfield, class president, comprised the remainder of the program. All the numbers were in highly humorous strains. Francis Madden retorted to taunts on behalf of the juniors.

The exercises ended by the entire "class of '74" singing the class song, "It's a Long Way to Graduation."
