

WITNESS 'DECLINES TO ACCEPT FEES

For the first time in the history of municipal court in Duluth a witness yesterday refused to accept his fees. Nathan Kaplan, proprietor of a West Superior street clothing store, furnished evidence enough to convince Judge Smallwood that Paul Sabaka was guilty of using abusive language.

Sabaka was fined $10 and when Deputy Clerk Halada directed Kaplan to sign his name to a receipt for witness fees, the latter refused to sign his name on Saturday because it is the Jewish Sunday, and the money was not collected.
