

LACK OF HOME LIFE IS BASIS OF DIVORCE SUIT

Lack of home life is the basis of a suit for divorce instituted in district court yesterday by Sarah Sher against Jacob Sher, a Two Harbors merchant.

She alleges that when she married the defendant he was a peddler, but promised he would go into business in Duluth and keep a home. She states that during the three years of their married life they kept house only six months. She alleges they recently moved to Two Harbors, where instead of keeping house he forced her to stay in a cheap boarding house which had several negro roomers.

She alleges her husband has accumulated about $1,000 and that she has helped him earn the amount by working in his store, and asks for divorce and suitable alimony.