MORRIS LEVY.

RICH MERCHANT FINDS SISTER IN ZENITH CITY

Mrs. Jacob Shapiro Proves to Be Much-Sought-for Relative of Morris Levy.

Landing in New York 28 years ago an immigrant, Morris Levy endured many years of weary toil until fortune smiled. He sought in vain to communicate with relatives in Europe and despaired of ever hearing of them when war's devastation swept his native land. Mr. Levy realized happiness yesterday afternoon when he found in Mrs. Jacob Shapiro, 208 East Fourth street, a sister, whom he had last seen when a youth.

Levy came to Duluth upon physician's orders for a change in climate. Upon his arrival he made his way to the Jewish synagogue, his daily custom, to pray. There he found new friends. He was taken as a guest to the home of Jacob Shapiro.

The first object that met his eyes was a picture of himself when a youth. Anxiously he inquired the source of the picture and was told by Shapiro that it was his wife's brother.

A moment later Mrs. Shapiro entered the room and recognition was instant.

Levy, who accumulated a fortune as a merchant will make his future home in Duluth.
