

MAN WHO DESIGNED WARSHIPS FOR GOVERNMENT, DULUTHAN

The man who designed the battleships Maryland and Missouri is a Duluthian.

It was George Silverman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Silverman, 216 East Fourth street.

Mr. Silverman, accompanied by his wife was in the city last night en route from New York to Portland, where he has been commissioned by the war department to construct wooden vessels for the government.

Architectural designing of battleships has been Mr. Silverman's specialty, but in his work he has been called upon to take complete charge of construction. He has made his home at Bethel, Mich., until he was called to New York at the declaration of war.
