

FORMER CHISHOLM MAN WRITES OF HIS EXPERIENCES

CHISHOLM, Dec. 6.—From Morris Leibovitz with the One Hundred and Ninety-ninth aero squadron, former young jewelry merchant from this village, who sold out his business to enlist in the service of his country, comes a message of good cheer from "over there."

"I received your letter," he writes to a friend in Chisholm. "I am feeling fine and I like the army life very well. We have many good times." The "Y" helps to cheer us up. We all want to come home, but we did not seek that privilege until we had the Huns completely defeated.
