

WILL OFFER PRIZES.

Nine dollars in prizes will be offered by Moe Buchman, representing the Central high "Spectator" board, in chapel this morning to literary talent of the school contributing articles to the final June issue of the school monthly, which will be distributed prior to the close of school for the summer vacation. Two dollar prizes each for the best essay, short story, or poem contributed, and one dollar prize each for those receiving second rating in the respective contests. The stories, poems and essays may be on any subject appropriate for a school publication. Decisions as to the winners will be made by the editor and faculty advisor of the paper.
