

Shakespeare Club Holds Meeting at Loeb Home

The Evening Shakespeare class of the Twentieth Century club held an open meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Louis Loeb on East Superior street. The members of the various branches of the club, their husbands and guests attended in a large number.

Many members from former years renewed their old acquaintances and several new members were admitted.

A very interesting talk on the "Merchant of Venice" was given by Dr. Maurice Lefkowitz. There was a short musical program, including a violin solo by Mr. Bloch and a group of songs by Miss Florence Williams.
