ARTISTS, ARTISANS 'MADE' AT SCHOOLS

IPPER—These palaters and interior decorates will be artists when they have to the actists when they have to the
their course at the Washington school. The class is composed or nen who are already critismen, but who desire to perfect themselves in their vocation. They are learning stencil work, motting and interior decorative designing. Karl Egner is instructor.
Lower—Exery one of these
"students" is an expert on some
"students" is an expert on some
certain about the control of the certain short control of the
certain short control of the control of the control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
control of the
contr

Lower—Every one of these "students" is an expert on some certain shop machine, who, desirous of increasing his ability and earning power, is learning to operate ofter machines at the operate ofter machines at the stop at the Washington school. This shop is equipped with drill presses, turning lathes, planers, joiners and shapers and is under the supervision of Jean Carr.

