

Dress Rehearsal for 'Oh! Oh! Cindy' to Be Held as Practice

Civic Organizations Boost Ticket Sales for Legion Play.

With civic and commercial organizations of Superior boosting the ticket sales of "Oh! Oh! Oh! Cindy," the musical comedy to be presented under the auspices of the American Legion at the Plaza theater Monday and Tuesday nights, the production promises to be one of the best amateur talent plays ever shown in the city. Special scenery and costumes have arrived and Eugene J. Costello, director of the cast, announced last night that the full dress rehearsals will be given each day until Monday.

Lucille Hayes, as "Cindy," carries the leading role in the play, with Philip Litman playing the leading masculine part. The role of Blanche Blondina, known to the company as "Goldie," a chum of "Cindy," is carried by Emma Beglinger. Dorothy McGrath, Nan Clark, Agnes Lindberg and Lucille Wannebo appear as the "big four" of Slegfield Follies, in songs and dancing throughout the show.

Others appearing in the cast are Ray Adelman, John MacDougal, Bert Fajchard, Stanley Anderson, Homer Hill, George Churchill, Eleanor Carroll, Donald Melver, Robert Stone, and Henrietta Beglinger.

A chorus exceeding 200, including many children, will appear in the show.
