

AMERICAN IDEALS FAVORED BY JEWS, RABBI SAYS

"Jews love the United States because many of its ideals and institutions resemble those of Judaism," said Rabbi Israel Lebediger in a sermon last night at the Hebrew Institute. "The Jews from the beginning of their history have shown a love for liberty and democracy."

"Earlier than the American revolution, was the ancient Israelite revolution against the Egyptians. There are many similarities between the formation of the American nation and the coming into being of the early Jewish commonwealth. Both started their career with a war for freedom."
